MARYKNOLL INSTITUTE OF AFRICAN STUDIES OF SAINT MARY'S UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA/USA AND TANGAZA UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, NAIROBI, KENYA
A POSTGRADUATE PROGRAM

Two Year Master Degree Programs
Possible for full-time students

With the 2016/2017 semester-length programs full-time graduate students can do a Master of Arts (M.A.) in African Studies in two years. Students would do three of the six required courses in the Jan-April semester program, and two courses in the May-July Immersion programs. The sixth course would be done during the Sept-Nov semester while doing research and writing a publishable quality MA thesis of a minimum of one hundred and fifty pages.

The Master of African Studies (M.A.S.) requires a seventh course and a publishable quality long essay of a minimum of fifty pages in lieu of a thesis. The seventh course would be done during the Sept-Dec semester while researching and writing the essay.

Any three courses completed while maintaining a minimum "C+" average entitles students to a joint Tangaza University College /Saint Mary's University Certificate. Completion of five courses including that of African Traditional Religion and African Culture: An Overview while maintaining a minimum "B" average entitles students to a Tangaza University College Diploma.

APPLICATION DEADLINE

August 15, 2016: September 16 ó December 9, 2016 Semester Program

December 15, 2016: January 13 ó April 7, 2017 Semester Program

May 1, 2017: May 16 ó June 7, 2017 First Immersion Program

June 1, 2017: June 13 ó July 5, 2017 Second Immersion program

August 15, 2017: September 8 ó December 1, 2017 Semester Program

PRIMARY GOAL

The primary goal of the Maryknoll Institute of African Studies of Saint Mary's University of Minnesota and Tangaza University College is to teach, systematically, African cultural knowledge through its fifteen major themes and thirty-five domains in such a manner that students appropriate and can articulate an African viewpoint on contemporary cultural realities and are able to articulate that viewpoint in an adult professional manner.

STUDENT BODY

The SEMESTER AND IMMERSION Programs are designed for the following types of students: 1) All African and missionary pastoral, educational, medical and social developmental agents, 2) all African students, teachers and foreign residents of Africa including NGO personnel, and 3) (Immersion Programs only) students, teachers, and NGO personnel from overseas. For some foreign students the program entails primary introduction to African life and reality, for others, updating through in-depth study of African cultural themes and domains and, for African students, systematic articulation of African cultural knowledge that is theirs by reason of birth and socialization in an African society.

EDUCATIONAL PLAN

The Semester programs require one, three and one-half hour class for twelve weeks, and one, four hour field research per week for ten weeks for each course. A full time student is able to take three courses per semester. It is expected that a student spends eighteen hours per week per course in reading, writing, field research and attending class. The Immersion programs are intense programs requiring ten hours of study per day for twenty-two days while bypassing tourist and vacation circuits. If one is unable or unwilling to give the IMMERSION programs 100% of one's time and energy in serious in-depth study of African reality, PLEASE DO NOT APPLY. There is no room for students who wish only exposure to Africa, or who wish merely to audit the lectures.

The Institute's program combines postgraduate academic study of African cultural knowledge through lectures and required readings with: 1) directed field research, 2) group discussions on course material, and 3) a fifteen-page research/integration paper. The field research is facilitated by African university graduates, "field assistants," who introduce participants to dimensions and aspects of African society correlated with issues being taught in the classrooms. The meetings and trips with field assistants are supervised by lecturers so that students in the IMMERSION programs experience new realities of Kenyan society at least three times a week, and those in the SEMESTER programs one day a week per course. During fieldwork, students are assisted by their field assistants who function as tutorial instructors. The topics researched with local people are on the issues and ideas that are presented in the courses.

WHAT THE INSTITUTE PROVIDES

For the price of tuition MIAS provides: 1) classroom facilities at Tangaza University College, 2) access to the MIAS and Tangaza libraries, and other local libraries, 3) highly qualified Africanist lecturers, 4) postgraduate courses awarded four graduate credits by Saint Mary's University of Minnesota/U.S.A., a University accredited by the Higher Learning Commission* and a member of North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. 5) forty hours of directed field research with a personal field assistant. MIAS does NOT provide board, room, books, or transport in and about Nairobi. These items are the responsibility of the participants. However, if necessary, the Institute's director helps participants find satisfactory accommodations and travel arrangements.

COURSE ACCREDITATION:

The courses are four 6 credit postgraduate courses accredited by Saint Mary's University of MN/USA. The courses are registered and transcribed by Saint Mary's University.

TANGAZA UNIVERSITY COLLEGE ACADEMIC AWARDS

As an Institute affiliated academically with Tangaza University College, a constituent college of the Catholic University of Eastern Africa, MIAS awards: 1) a joint Tangaza University College/Saint Mary's University Certificate for completion of three courses while maintaining a minimum "C+" average, and 2) a Tangaza University College Diploma for those who successfully complete five courses, including the courses on "African Culture" and "African Religion," while maintaining a minimum "B" average.

ACADEMIC STRUCTURE

IMMERSION PROGRAMS

The institute's Immersion programs are structured into two, three-week sessions. During each session five or six courses are offered to meet the needs and interests of various participants. A person takes only one course per session. For students who are already enrolled in advanced degree programs in other institutions, the credits granted (four per course) can be applied towards their programs according to the regulations of their parent institutions. Undergraduate participants are classified as special students and awarded graduate credits. There is no provision for auditing course. One must agree to fulfill all requirements including field research and a course paper as a condition for acceptance.

SEMESTER PROGRAMS

The Institute's SEMESTER courses meet once a week for twelve weeks. The maximum number of courses a student can take per semester is three. The semester programs list twenty courses, but only those with sufficient pre-registration are taught. Students have the option of taking either one, two or three courses during a semester program. The course, African Cultures: An Overview is required for those in the MA degree programs, and is recommended for those new to Africa.

DATES OF INSTITUTE'S 2016/2017 PROGRAMS

LOCATION

The Institute is located in Nairobi, Kenya due to the widespread use of English, the extensive public transportation system in and about the city and throughout the country, the libraries which are adequate for post-graduate work, and numerous guest houses, some private and others maintained by churches, where participants can reside. The classes are held at Tangaza University college which is located on the southern outskirts of Nairobi in the Karengata area. It is on Lang'ata South Road one-half kilometer from its junction with Lang'ata road. It is reached by bus/Matatu Route #24, stage 13.

DAILY SCHEDULE: SEMESTER COURSES

Each course meets one day a week at Tangaza University College from 1.30pm ó 4:45pm according to the schedule, and one day a week (per course) is spent on field research with a personal assistant (the day determined by the student). The field research session for each course is planned in advance with the lecturer.

DAILY SCHEDULE: IMMERSION COURSES

Class days for the two sessions are Wednesday through Friday. The classes are at Tangaza University College from 8:30 amô 12:15 pm. They are followed by a prayer service form 12:15 pmô 12:30 pm. At 12:30 pm lunch is served in the college cafeteria. Afternoons have workshop and seminars scheduled on field research and pastoral reflection. The rest of the week is for field research with a personal field assistant (each week three field research sessions are planned in advance with the lecturers), library research, private study, and writing a fifteen-page research/integration paper. Transportation to and from the school is the responsibility of the students.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS

Each course requires a student to write a fifteen-page research integration paper, read the required bibliographical material, and participate in the field research workshops and pastoral reflection sessions.

TUITION COST PER COURSE:

2016/2017 SEMESTER programs: Ksh 34,500 (US $475). The program is subsidized 50% ; the tuition pays only half of the actual cost per course. However, the subsidy of 50% is valid only for students who are citizens and residents of Africa. Foreign students from overseas are charged the full cost of US $950 per course.

2016/2017 IMMERSION programs: Ksh 37,500 (US $540). The IMMERSION programs are also subsidized 50%. However, the subsidy of 50% is valid only for students who are citizens and residents of Africa. Foreign students from overseas are charged the full cost of US $1080 per course.

TUITION RELIEF

The tuition cost per course was set in terms of making the Institute self-sufficient through tuition, grants and a substantial Maryknoll Society subsidy. However, African students who cannot afford the full tuition can apply for tuition relief once they have been officially accepted. The Institute's sponsors do not want qualified African students turned away due solely to tuition expenses.
